A Message from the Pastor

We formally began our liturgy, this evening, with the words: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen." We traced the mystery of the Trinity on ourselves as we began our prayer together. Through the words we proclaimed and the actions we made, we immersed ourselves again in the mystery of the three persons in one God. Now a mystery is something we can never fully understand. So, I do not pretend to understand the mystery of the Trinity fully. Nor do I claim that you will be any more enlightened about the Trinity at the conclusion of this Bulletin Message or when you have traced the mystery of the Trinity on yourselves again at the beginning and conclusion of Mass this weekend.

The Jesuit theologian Karl Rahner once lamented the fact that the Trinity has become a rather irrelevant doctrine to most Christians. He wryly observed that if the church were to declare a change in this doctrine and say there were two or four persons in God, it would make no difference to most Christians--just something to accept on faith. Since Rahner wrote this over thirty years ago, we have begun to rediscover the Trinity as central to our faith. Made in the image of God, we find it to be good news to learn that this is a God of relationship, of love, of intimacy, of everlasting sharing, giving, and receiving. That God should be a threefold God was one of the theological and psychological insights of the early church.

The scriptures today give us some beautiful glimpses of the mystery of these three persons in one God: the Creator who delights in the human race that he created and reveals himself as "kind and merciful, slow to anger and rich in kindness and fidelity"; the Redeemer who doesn't leave us orphans but promises us the gift of the Spirit of truth; and the Sanctifier who teaches us to how to pray, how to endure and how to hope.

What can we learn from this mystery of the Trinity that might help us in our spiritual journeys? We can think of the making and creating role of the Father, and how much in our life can be seen as co-operation with that: anything that we do to create, to awaken, to cherish new life; what we do to mold and shape the environment; clearing anything that threatens to strangle the new life in a neglected corner of our garden; our manual work as well as the more profound creating of new human flesh and cherishing that life in the early years of our children; creating a productive, just and satisfying working environment as well as the more mundane but equally satisfying work in the kitchen of making meals and washing up the dishes. In all of these actions we discover glimpses of the Creator.

To the Son, who paid the price of our freedom, we can commend all that we may try to do in working with people, teaching and listening, trying to expand inner horizons, trying to widen hearts and imaginations through the sharing with others of what we have received from our reading, our reflection and our study. Whenever we examine the lives of the saints, whenever we are inspired by the holy men and women who have gone before us in faith, like Dorothy Day and John Vanier, like Oscar Romero, Ita Ford, Maura Clarke, Jean Donovan and Dorothy Kazel, like Ignacio Ellacuria and the martyrs of the University of Central America. In remembering them, we discover glimpses of the Redeemer and how the saving power of Christ is at work in our world.

Finally, to the special role of the Holy Spirit, we can commend all the work of compassion and forgiveness and healing that must happen time and time again throughout our life: the mending and making whole again, and how our own receiving of the gifts of compassion and acceptance and forgiveness can then be shared. In all of these actions, we discover glimpses of the Sanctifier.

Fr. Mike

Thank you to all of the many people who have donated to our playground renovation. In thanksgiving, we held a Playground Celebration to honor all donors, past and present!

Thank you to all of our families and parishioners for supporting our school auction. We have finished the raffle 'Sundae-Sorbet Party' for all of the classes meeting their goal. We would like all families and parishioners, those that attended and those that did not attend, to please complete this quick auction survey to guide us in planning for next year's event. Thank you for your time!

We all wish to extend a heartfelt thank you for our wonderful teacher appreciation celebrations throughout the month of May. This week, our staff enjoyed a delicious Thai lunch on Wednesday complete with dessert and beverages.

Our students are building brilliant futures with joyful attitudes every day! Our preschool students are studying about space and the planets. The kindergarteners are learning about the life cycle of plants by growing marigolds. The 1st graders are studying Pentecost and preparing our next Mass with the 8th graders. In 2nd grade, the students are learning about standard form and expanded form of large numbers. They are marveling at God's magnificent creation popping up all over our campus! Our 3rd graders kicked off the week with a Portland bridge tour. They were lucky to see several bridges in action. Our 4th graders are studying United States history during the late 1800's, the time of the Oregon Trail. The 5th graders are working on creative writing stories featuring animal characters. Our 6th graders spent a week at Outdoor School learning about soil and habitats. Our 7th graders took their last trip to Courtyard at Mt. Tabor to visit the residents this week. The 8th graders are learning about the historical impact of past United States Presidents in foreign policy.

May we remain grateful in God's plan for us as we hear in Matthew, chapter seven, verse seven, "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you."

Peace be with you.
